

Are you up for the challenge?

The Long Hot Summer Conference is bringing the challenge to you!
Sign up to participate in this fun and interactive scenario-based competition.

Qualifications: Teams will be tested on clinical knowledge, critical thinking skills, teamwork, communication and situational awareness. Teams elect to participate in either an ALS or BLS track depending on their level of certification. A panel of judges will evaluate their performance and provide valuable feedback.

Registration: Is on a first come, first serve basis. If the time slot you have chosen is full you will be moved to one that is available. If both time slots are full you will be notified to select different sessions.

Scoring: All score sheets and scenarios will be based on Brady's Emergency Care, 13th Edition. Scores will be announced on Saturday.

Format: Each team will be judged on two (2) separate scenarios. Scenarios will be designed to cover a variety of different situations that providers might encounter in their day-to-day activities as a pre-hospital care provider.

Equipment: Equipment and Emergency Care Kits will be provided by LHS Staff. No kits are to be opened prior to the start of the challenge. All equipment must be put away after the completion of each scenario and before the start of the next scenario. Gloves must be worn for each scenario and need to be verbally "changed" between each simulated patient contact.

Time Limits: A maximum time limit will be set for each scenario. Near the end of the allotted time, a warning will be announced. A "Time's Up" will be announced, at which time all team members are to cease their scenario-related activities, pack up their equipment and prepare to be escorted to the next station. Points will be based on completed actions, and any line-item skills not completed may result in a loss of points.

Long Hot Summer Games

BLS Challenge

Based on the award-winning competition conducted by the International Rescue & Emergency Care Association, the Long, Hot Summer Games BLS Edition aims to challenge participants to work as a team to treat simulated patients in a realistic environment similar to that experienced in the field. Each team is comprised of three individuals, at least one of which must be an EMT, and are given 15 minutes in each scenario to assess, treat, and hand off any number of patients to a higher level of care - complicated by real-time changes in patient condition to challenge each and every provider to their adequate skill level. Each team will be tested on two scenarios, scored on their proficiency of skills as well as timeliness and ability to adapt to changing conditions, and the high-scoring team will earn an award to be handed out after the closing session of the conference on Saturday.

Objectives:

- To work as a team to assess and treat simulated patients who present with any number of evolving medical or traumatic conditions
- To carry out and perform skills relevant to the individual training level, with the overall goal of providing unmatched patient care
